

Green Mountain Monastery

Pilgrimage of Hope for Creation

"When our cultural coding no longer has the capacity to guide us forward, when that coding has lost its integrity and cannot be trusted, a return must be made to our deeper knowing – What is needed is not transcendence but incendence." ~Thomas Berry

What is being asked of us in these turbulent times? How can we journey to the heart of Earth's wisdom for guidance? What is being revealed?

Join us for a deep dive retreat into these questions as we immerse ourselves with the Earth Community. The Sisters of the Earth welcome you to their 155 acres called Green Mountain Monastery, a sacred space which holds the resting place of Thomas Berry. We invite you into a beautiful experience with the community of life, which includes a full or partial digital detox. This land will be our sacred container whom we will encounter through ritual, song, silence, and deep listening.
